

Respectfully say 'NO' to redefining marriage

Millie Fontana

Melbournian, atheist, raised with two 'Mums', bravely relates her story.

'For me, equality was being told the truth'.

Watch it on YouTube:

'The other side of the rainbow -
Millie Fontana's story'.

Read other real-life stories collected by
Katy Faust, also raised by two 'mothers':

<http://ThemBeforeUs.com/stories/>.

The Presbyterian Church of Victoria affirms that

'marriage is the lifelong union of one man with one woman, voluntarily entered into, excluding all others.'

Respectfully say 'NO' to redefining marriage

CHURCH AND NATION
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF VICTORIA

Respectfully say 'NO' to redefining marriage

SAY 'NO'

If you want:

- ✓ To preserve children's rights
- ✓ A free society
- ✓ A stable society
- ✓ A time-tested society

ONLY say 'yes'

If you want:

- ✗ Radical gender theory
- ✗ Eroded free speech, religion or thought
- ✗ A social experiment
- ✗ A cultural revolution

'Marriage equality'?

Children are better off on average when raised by their married, biological parents, whenever possible (Sullins, 2015).

'Love is love'?

Marriage law isn't only about certifying love. Society honours traditional marriage because children are our future.

'The right side of history'?

Traditional marriage is tried and tested. It's our only history.

'It won't make much difference'?

Primary school children are already being radically sexualized in the 'Safe Schools' program. Change the law, and schools will be forced to teach radical gender theory. Teachers that object might be fired. Schools that object might be closed. Other Australians will feel the difference. Florists, bakers, printers, and others will likely face fines if they conscientiously withhold services from a same-sex couple's ceremony. No Australian will escape the differences a change in marriage law makes. Freedoms are vanishing. Say no to eroding freedom of conscience, speech and religion.

